

Bob Curry

Product Manager Serum, Corning Life Sciences

Robert (Bob) Curry is the Product Manager for Serum at Corning Life Sciences. Bob has global responsibility for the serum product line strategy including the Vacca wholesale raw serum business as well as Corning's retail finished serum business. He has multiple years of experience in the serum industry, having previously worked at GE Life Sciences (HyClone). Bob has also held multiple roles at Corning Life Sciences in product management, strategy and production. Prior to entering the Life Sciences industry Bob was an officer in the United States Navy. He holds a Bachelor's Degree in Civil Engineering from Tufts University and a Masters of Business Administration from Harvard. Bob has been a member of the ISIA Board of Directors for 2 years. He resides with his wife and two children in the Seacoast region of New Hampshire.