

Nicole Green
VP of Operations and Communication, Central Biomedica Inc.

Nicole has been in the serum industry for 20 years. During this time, she has worked as Lab Technician, Production Manager, Quality Manager, Plant Manager. She is currently the Vice President of Operations and Communication for central Biomedica. Central Biomedica works exclusively with animal serum and hence complete honesty in collection, paperwork, and labeling, is extremely important. Providing safe materials to end users who are producing and creating life-saving products is of the utmost importance to CBI and its employees.

As part of a contract manufacturer, she sees different types of serum from many different suppliers. This allows her to have an unbiased view of the paperwork for traceability and supports her role as the leader of the ISIA traceability team. Her experience with the ISIA Traceability Certification process has allowed her to lead the team in continually improving the policy and traceability audit checklist.
